

BING Power Origin - hereinafter BPO - Privacy Policy

BPO is committed to protect personal information. For the BPO as well in order to conduct your business, it is important that we protect and treat you as confidential personal information in accordance with applicable confidentiality, privacy and data security laws. We hope the information below will help you to understand what kind of information BPO can collect, in what way use and protect and with whom you can share.

Personal data

Through its website, BPO does not collect anything about you that can be contacted information (eg name, address, telephone number or e-mail address ("personal data")), unless you do not choose to provide it to us (e.g. through registration, survey). Until you want your personal information to come into our possession, please do not give it to us.

If you provide us personal information, we do so only as you provide the information for the purpose indicated, so we use it in particular to respond to your inquiry, your order process or provide you with access to certain account information. Besides that, to maintain contact with you as a customer:

- store and process personal information in order to better understand your business demands as well as see how we can improve our products and our services
- We may use your personal information to provide offer that meets your business demands, we will contact you regarding a BPO offer or conduct online surveys to understand better the needs and profile of our customers.

If you choose not to consent to the sharing of personal information with us to maintain contact as our customer (mainly direct marketing or market research), we will respect your decision.

During handling and processing of personal information BPO is following next principles

- personal data treats only with your consent or legal authorization
- data management is always possible only for the specified purpose
- Only data that is essential and necessary for the achievement of the purpose and suitable (eg name, address, email address, etc.)
- The BPO will inform you of the purpose, manner, duration and nature of the data processing who will handle the data or process,
- BPO may only transfer personal data to a third party if you have agreed it
- BPO will take all necessary and possible measures to protect and to prevent unauthorized access
- BPO in the course of data processing the relevant legislation - in particular Act CXII of 2011. act on the Right to Information Self-determination and Freedom of Information (Info. Act) and the 1995 CXIX. TV. on the management of name and address data for the purposes of research and direct business acquisition.

Automatically collected Non-personal information

When you visit our website, we automatically (i.e. not by registration) we may have access to information non identifiable personally (such as type of browser, the operating system used on the machine, the domain name of the website, where you came from, number of visits, average time spent, pages viewed). This information we may use and share with our business partners worldwide in order to check the usability of our websites and to improve their content.

"Cookies"

Information automatically stored on your computer. When you view our website, we may store information on your computer in the form of a "cookie" in order to be recognized automatically the next time you visit. "Cookies" can help in many ways us, for example, by allowing us to make a website of your interest more properly designed or that you can save your password so you don't need it enter it again each time. If you do not want us to recognize you, please adjust Internet browser in such a way that it deletes "cookies" from your hard drive, do not enable "cookies" or warn you before a "cookie" is stored.

Children

Children without consent of a parent or guardian must not provide any personal information to BPO websites. The BPO encourages parents and guardians to educate their children about the safe and responsible use of their personal information on the Internet while using. The BPO will not collect consciously personal information obtained from children for any purpose, including making it available for third parties.

Safety

The BPO takes precautions to protect your personal information and strives to to preserve them accurately. We strive to keep your personal information carefully loss, destruction, falsification, manipulation and unauthorized access, or from unauthorized disclosure.

Links to other websites

The BPO website may contain links to other websites. The BPO is not responsible for the privacy practices or content of other websites.

Questions and comments

If you have any questions or comments about BPO's privacy policy (eg requesting information or rectification of your personal data processed), please contact us at info@bp-origin.hu and enter the following in the "Subject" line:

"Data security". As the Internet evolves, our privacy policies will change. Changes in our privacy policy will be discussed on this page published immediately after the decision to change the existing policies has been taken.

BPO is committed to protecting personal information. For the BPO as well in order to conduct your business, it is important that we protect and treat your confidential personal information in accordance with applicable confidentiality, privacy and data security laws. We hope the information below will help you to understand what information the BPO can collect, in what way use and protect and with whom you can share.